

PRESIDENT NAMES OCTOBER 24 LIBERTY DAY

HOLLAND STOPS ALL SHIPPING TO BRITISH PORTS

Resents Pressure Brought to Prevent Transit of Gravel

SERIOUS DISPUTE

Claim Made That Germany Is Using Material for Fortifications

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 14.—The Maas-bode says it learns all Dutch shipping to England has been stopped on account of the pending differences between Great Britain and Holland.

Great Britain on October 11 stopped all commercial cable communication with Holland until such time as the Netherlands government placed absolute restriction on the transit of sand, gravel and scrap metal from Germany to Holland by way of Holland.

Will Holland Yield?

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 14.—Cornelius Van Aarts, president of the Netherlands Overseas Trust, in an interview printed in the Handelsblad, describes the restriction placed by Great Britain on cable communication between Holland and other countries, in terms of a "voluntary" measure which could not have been devised by persons unacquainted with the situation and to the feeling in Holland.

ANNOUNCE TERMS OF U. S. INSURANCE

Policies to Be Issued by Government to Soldiers and Sailors

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Samples of the insurance policy which the government will issue for its soldiers and sailors were made public tonight by the treasury department. Plans for putting the policies into effect will be outlined here next Tuesday at a conference of treasury officials with representatives of the navy and officers and enlisted men at the thirty-two command.

Details of the policy disclose that risks will be written upon the lives of men and women between the ages of 15 and 65 in all branches of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, naval reserve, national guard, volunteers, nurses and "any other service with the United States service serving with the army or navy."

Announcement was made also that "rates at ages higher or lower will be given upon request."

Premiums compounded on a monthly basis, vary between 62 cents per $1000 at age 15 to $3.35 per $1000 at age 65. Between 21 and 25 years, the following monthly premiums will be charged: $1.00 of insurance (the limit being $10,000).

Twenty-one to 23, inclusive, 65 cents; 24 and 25, 65 cents; 26 and 27, 67 cents; 28, 68 cents; 29 and 30, 69 cents; 31, 70 cents.

Total Disability. During periods of total disability the insurance will be paid, not in lump sum, but monthly for twenty years, should the disability continue for that period. Should death occur before twenty years, the remainder of the policy will be paid at once to the beneficiary.

At the age of 25, the monthly premium installment for the twenty-year period would be $5.75 per $1000 of insurance.

Provision is made for family allowances, for wounded and disabled, for compensation in case of death or injury without cost and for insurance at very small cost.

In cases of partial disability, the amount of compensation is determined by a subject to be based upon the extent of impairment of earning capacity.

Total disability payments are to be increased above the figure named in the policy where the insured has dependents.

"Where the injury or disease is caused by the willful misconduct of the insured, the policy reads, 'compensation will not be paid.'"

JEW TO THINK SOLELY OF WAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Because of the war, the executive committee of the American Jewish Congress, at a special meeting here today decided to postpone the congress which was to have been held at Washington, November 18.

The committee decided that "it would not be proper at this time to bring to public attention the claims of the Jewish people, when they should concentrate their entire attention upon the successful prosecution of the war."

COMMUNITIES TO MEET TO PLEDGE FUNDS FOR NATION

Impressive and Emphatic Self-Searching Needed By People of the United States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—President Wilson in behalf of the Liberty Loan tonight issued a proclamation setting aside October 24 as Liberty Day and urging the people of the nation to assemble on that day in their respective communities and "pledge to one another and to the government that represents them the fullest measure of financial support."

"Let the result be so impressive and emphatic," the President urges, "that it will echo throughout the empire of our enemy as an index of what America intends to do to bring this war to a victorious conclusion."

The President's proclamation follows: "By the people of America: A proclamation. The second Liberty loan gives the people of the United States an opportunity to lend their funds to their government to sustain their country at war. The might of the United States is being mobilized and organized to strike a mortal blow at autocracy in defense of the cause of liberty. Billions of dollars are required to arm, feed and clothe the brave men who are going forth to fight our country's battles and to assist the nations with whom we are making common cause against a common foe. To subscribe to the Liberty loan is to pledge to the government that it will echo throughout the empire of our enemy as an index of what America intends to do to bring this war to a victorious conclusion."

"For the purpose of participation in the Liberty day celebration all employees of the federal government throughout the country whose services can be spared, may be excused at 12 o'clock, Wednesday, the twenty-fourth of October. 'In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.'"

"Done in the District of Columbia, this twelfth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and in the independence of the United States of America of the one hundred and forty-second. (Signed) 'WOODROW WILSON.'"

The President also issued a proclamation setting aside October 24 as Liberty Day and urging the people of the nation to assemble on that day in their respective communities and "pledge to one another and to the government that represents them the fullest measure of financial support."

Official reports of subscription up to the close of business last night, sent by eleven of the twelve reserve banks show, but little progress has been made. At 10 o'clock, the total standing at $39,654,900, or only about 5 per cent of the $5,000,000,000 hoped for. Following are the figures as announced by the board:

Albany, N. Y., $5,100,000; Allentown, Pa., $5,100,000; Boston, $5,100,000; Buffalo, N. Y., $5,100,000; Cleveland, $5,100,000; Cincinnati, $5,100,000; Chicago, $5,100,000; Dallas, $5,100,000; Denver, $5,100,000; Detroit, $5,100,000; Kansas City, $5,100,000; Little Rock, $5,100,000; Louisville, $5,100,000; Memphis, $5,100,000; Milwaukee, $5,100,000; Minneapolis, $5,100,000; New York, $5,100,000; Philadelphia, $5,100,000; Pittsburgh, $5,100,000; St. Louis, $5,100,000; St. Paul, $5,100,000; San Francisco, $5,100,000; Seattle, $5,100,000; Springfield, $5,100,000; Toledo, $5,100,000; Washington, $5,100,000; Wichita, $5,100,000.

"In other words, the latest official figures and most careful estimates of unreported sales make it appear that not more than 15 per cent of the million quota has been subscribed. It is to be attained $553,000,000 worth of bonds must be sold every working day between now and the close of the drive."

Harder Than Ever. NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—An army of workers in behalf of the second Liberty loan will begin the last day of the campaign today. Just why the 24 per cent quota has been subscribed, it is to be attained $553,000,000 worth of bonds must be sold every working day between now and the close of the drive.

"Bonds or Taxes" ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14.—Failure of the Liberty loan will mean higher taxes, said Champ Clarke, speaker of the House of Representatives, who accompanied by Mrs. Clarke, passed through here today on their way to Fort Sill, Okla., to visit their son, Lieutenant Colonel Bennett Champ Clarke.

The sale of bonds, according to the speaker, is looking "like the pie in the sky." "Just why the 24 per cent quota has been subscribed, it is to be attained $553,000,000 worth of bonds must be sold every working day between now and the close of the drive."

FIREMEN SAVE BRITISH SHIP ON ATLANTIC COAST

Heroism Prevents Loss of Munitions and Oil Cargo

STILL BURNING

Flames Break Out Shortly After Leaving U. S. Port

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 14.—A large British steamer, loaded with munitions, principally explosives, and six thousand barrels of oil in bulk, was towed back into port tonight with fire in her engine-room compartments under control after a twenty-four hour battle to keep the ship from exploding.

The fire broke out yesterday evening when the ship was thirty miles out of this port and off a government station. Blue flames were seen coming from the engine-room compartments in the bow of the ship and in every reserve water tank.

Captain [redacted] told them to be real Britons and called on his firemen to go below and draw the fires. They made their way through the gas which was pouring off the burning oil and with the aid of the ship's pumps which flooded the engine-room the ship's fires were soon out. Meantime the pilot had put the ship into a creek where the winds were not so dangerous.

Fire was still burning in several of the tanks tonight, but it was said to be well under control. An investigation has been started by admiralty and United States officials to ascertain the cause.

STEPS TO SAVE BOND VALUES

Comptroller of Currency Issues Orders to Bank Examiners

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Treasury officials, concerned over the downward tendency of the bond market as an outgrowth of liberty loan financing, have determined to take steps to check the shrinkage in gilt edge bond values so far as consistent with governmental action and sound financing.

To this end the comptroller of the treasury department issued a statement announcing that he had instructed all national bank examiners that they need not require national banks holding high-grade bonds of unquestioned intrinsic value and merit to charge them down to present abnormal figures, but to exercise "an intelligent and conservative discretion" as to the prices at which the banks can continue such securities.

This action, it is thought, will tend to prevent undue tightening of the money market with the further decline of bonds, a process which, if continued by a considerable period of time, might lead to heavy losses by the investors in such securities and to the consequent detriment of the properties upon which they are issued.

Russians Resist German Landing Force On Island

With the armies in Flanders inactive, except for bombardments, the war centers on the operations of the Germans in the island of Oesel, situated at the mouth of the Gulf of Riga and the key of the entrance to the Gulf of Finland.

At last reports, the Germans who landed under cover of a great array of naval craft, were steadily pressing back the Russians toward the southern part of the island and also putting ashore other forces, with the huge armadas guarding them against assault by Russian warships.

The entire northern and eastern sections of the island were in German hands and the invaders were only a short distance from Arensburg, on the southern shore, which was in flames. Cereals, which lie on the Zvorn peninsula, the southernmost extremity of the island, also was on fire. Whether the conflagrations were caused by the German guns or whether they were started by the Russians is not known.

Germans Lose Ships.

Although the German communication says the Germans suffered no losses during the landing on Oesel island, the Petrograd war office says that, in attempting to cover the landing of the enemy on Dago island, to the north of Oesel, four German torpedo boats are reported to have been sunk and one cruiser ran aground. A small detachment which landed on Dago island was forced later to return to the ships, while the Russian fleet, which at last advices had suffered no material damage, was hindering the German war craft in the waters between Dago and Oesel islands.

As yet nothing has come through to show that the enemy has attempted to attack the mainland of western Routhenia, nor has there been any indication that the Russian front in this region has been moved.

More Rain in Flanders.

Sunday again saw a heavy rainfall on the front in Flanders, and there were only reconnoitering encounters and artillery activity. To the south along the Aisne, a lively artillery duel continues between the French and the Germans.

CONFISCATE IRON STOCKS FOR USE OF GERMAN MILITARY

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 14.—The growing difficulty of obtaining iron and steel for war purposes in Germany is indicated by an imperial regulation just promulgated in Berlin confiscating stocks of structural iron and steel, common tubing, sheeting, cast iron and cast steel. The order prohibits the use of any of these kinds of steel or iron except by special permission. The order goes beyond the original regulation issued last July, which applied only to certain kinds of structural iron.

IOWA VOTES TODAY ON CONSTITUTIONAL PROHIBITION ACT

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 14.—With the close tonight of the campaign on the issue of constitutional prohibition, which will be voted on in Iowa at a special election tomorrow, leaders of both sides expressed confidence of victory. Iowa has been dry for two years under statutory prohibition. The amendment is adopted, it becomes effective immediately.

ENEMY TRADING ACT PUT IN FORCE

Boards Reorganized and Severe Rules Against Aliens Invoked

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Broad war powers conferred upon the President by the trading with the enemy act were put into operation under an executive order issued tonight, delegating the authority under the law to various government departments and to a newly created war trade board.

This trade board is composed of the members of the experts advisory board, which it will replace, with the addition of representatives of the treasury department, the war department, the navy department, the post office department, and the commerce department, and will exercise a similar control over imports as soon as the President proclaims under authority of the trading with the enemy act, articles to be so restricted.

Trading or commercial dealings of any nature with any enemy company or agent in this country or abroad is forbidden, except under license of the war trade board, which also is authorized to license enemy or "all of our" companies doing business in the United States, excepting those companies, whose supervision is entrusted to the treasury.

Censorship of mails, cables, radio and telegraph messages passing out of the United States, is placed in the hands of a censorship board consisting of representatives of the war, navy and post office departments, the war trade board and of George Cree, chairman of the committee on public information.

To the treasury is assigned the regulation of transactions in foreign exchange and exportation of gold or silver coin under license, and enforcement of the laws providing against transmission to the enemy of information by any other means than regular channels, and the licensing or re-licensing of companies of the enemy or ally of the enemy doing business with the United States.

Regulation of the use of enemy owned or controlled patents for the war and of the granting of patents containing information valuable to the enemy, is given to the Federal trade commission.

The postmaster general is entrusted with supervision over and licensing of foreign language newspapers. In anticipation of this authority, Postmaster General Barleson has been receiving applications for licenses, and will begin issuing them before Tuesday, October 16, the date the provisions of the law become effective. All such papers except those granted licenses are required under penalty to file with their local postmasters before publication true translations of all matter relating to the United States government, or any other nation at war. The same section of the law makes it unlawful to circulate in any manner matter made unavailable by the espionage act.

The President's order defines the powers of the alien press, and empowers the alien press for all enemy property within the United States, or to issue license exempting enemy companies from his supervision. An appointment for the position will be made soon.

The secretary of state is empowered to license the transportation of enemies to or from the United States through the existing passport means. The secretary of commerce will retain his present authority to review the decisions of customs officers refusing clearance to vessels carrying cargoes in violation of the trading with the enemy act.

War Trade Board The new war trade board is to consist of Vance C. McCormick, chair, and a representative of the secretary of war, Almon L. Taylor, representing the secretary of agriculture; Thomas D. Jones, representing the secretary of commerce; Beaver White, representing the food administration; Frank C. Munson, representing the shipping board, and a representative of the secretary of the treasury yet to be named. All but the treasury representative are now members of the experts advisory board, whose work hereafter will be done by the bureau of exports of the war trade board.

The name of the present "experts council" is changed to "war trade council." This body will act in an advisory capacity to the President and to the war trade board.

LIGHTNING STRIKES UNION OIL PLANT; 37,000 BBLS. AFIRE

Officials Hope to Confine Blaze to One Tank; Nine Others Threatened

(Special to the Republican.) BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 14.—Thirty-seven thousand barrels of oil are in flames and the entire $200,000 plant of the Union Oil Company in the Kern river oil fields, five miles north of Bakersfield, is threatened as a result of an electric storm which broke out on the fields at 5:30 o'clock tonight.

Lightning struck a great steel tank containing 37,000 barrels of light crude oil, splintered the wooden hood and set the oil on fire.

At midnight the fire was burning fiercely and the loss of the burning tank, valued at $150 a barrel, or $5,550, will be complete.

Although the big blaze menaces the entire field, which contains nine other tanks, officials of the company at that hour expressed the hope that the flames would be confined to the one tank, although the wind increased the danger of its spreading.

In spite of the drenching rain which is falling, great crowds attracted by the flames, which can be seen for miles around, all every road leading to the refinery.

QUICK SUPPLIES OF METALWARE

How the Trade Responded to Appeal of Medical Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Owing to the emergency needs of the government, American manufacturers of enameled ware have recently been making recollections of these wares it became known today.

With the mobilization of the troops, the medical division of the government found itself in immediate need of large supplies of hospital equipment. There was a particularly pressing need of enameled canteens. This was a war supply, and the government was unable to obtain them in the usual way.

The agents of the government appealed to the manufacturers to mobilize their resources in any way that would hasten production. These suggestions were promptly adopted with the result that the medical division has been supplied with enormous quantities of enameled utensils with practically no delay.

As the enameled industry is widely distributed geographically, it was possible to so apportion many of the orders that they fell on the lot of plants which were located in the immediate vicinity of certain of the "cantons." In this way long-haul shipments were eliminated, and considerable saving effected in time and ship-ment expense.

As a result of this plan of friendly cooperation among all the industry concerned, it was possible to break all records in the production and shipment of enameled ware, and to carry on this emergency work without seriously interfering with the normal operations of the industry in question.

Most of the requisitions have already been filled, and the government authorities have expressed themselves as highly pleased with the results and it is understood that even heavier purchases are still to come.

GOVERNOR WHITMAN SUPPORTS MITCHELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Governor Charles S. Whitman, acknowledged head of the Republican party in New York state, announced tonight he would vote for the re-election of Mayor Mitchell in the coming municipal election. He declared the only issue involved is whether Tammany hall shall rule the city, and that it is "plainly impossible to elect a Republican, the only hope of defeating Tammany leaders is the candidacy of Mr. Mitchell."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—In accordance with instructions from headquarters of the British Recruiting mission in the United States, Captain P. L. Claude, in charge of the office at 288 Market street, has informed his subordinates that neutral aliens will be accepted for service in the Canadian expeditionary force, provided they can speak and understand either English or French.

Men accepted under these instructions will be sent overseas as drafts for labor and construction purposes, which means that they will not be assigned to the fighting line. Laborers especially are in demand for construction work in France.

Germans, Austro-Germans, Turks and Bulgars will not be accepted for this service.

Since the British Recruiting mission began its drive on the Pacific coast about two months ago more than enough men to form two full regiments have been enlisted in California alone.

TWO U. S. AVIATORS FALL 100 FEET

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 14.—Lieutenant John Frost, U. S. A., and Lieutenant McLaughlin of an artillery regiment fell 100 feet in an airplane late today at Lieutenant Frost's private aviation field near here. McLaughlin was probably fatally injured, but Frost was not seriously hurt.

WRITES FROM ONLY BALLOON SCHOOL IN AMERICA

Fresno Boy Enjoys His Work at Fort
Omaha

Nephew of J. R. Wilkinson of Del Rey Describes Service

Writing from the aeronautic school at Fort Omaha to his uncle, J. R. Wilkin-son, a member of the company under training there, describes two types of balloons used in warfare. Following is Wilkin-son's letter.

Fort Omaha, Oct. 10, 1917.

"Dear Uncle:
"I have been intending writing you and telling you about the two types of balloons we have here. There is the Goodyear, this is the one with the tail cups on, and when it is quiet weather three cups are put on, and when windy four are put on. The other one is the British low type. One like it was brought to the Goodyear T. and R. Company by Sergeant Hill for the purpose of duplicating it. It has some advantages over the one designed by the Goodyear. First, it rises steadily in rough weather; second, there are no tail cups to loosen; third, the basket is hung closer to the balloon, and by doing so it eliminates the pendulum effect and makes the observing much easier, and fourth, when elevated, it rises back and forth across the sky, making it much harder to range by the enemy.

"By waiting to write this I can explain more fully the disastrous effect losing the tail cups has on the Goodyear type.

"Today about 10:45 our company was alongside our barracks when the tail cups came off the Goodyear. It was not until 1:00 p.m. that the balloon was comparatively high, wind blowing. As soon as the cups came off it was shot straight toward the ground, and the force of the wind made it fall as though it was shot from a gun, and just before it hit started up again. It was not until nearly every soldier in the post was there. Even was the first to get a rope, and when we all got hold they grabbed the flapping cord and deflated it almost instantly. It sure looked as though the two fellows in the basket had made their last ascent. It would start up and then down, but not clear to the earth, but right among live wires, but luckily they were insulated.

"A company in this branch has almost come to grips and has come to grips with the enemy. Our captain is a good soldier, has seen service, and came up from the ranks, and he sure puts the snap into his work. Believe me, we will have the company. He is very strict, but every one likes him the better for that. Our top sergeant is also a soldier who has seen service, and he is more considerate with the boys, I think, because he remembers the time when he was a buck private. For instance, the morning after pay-day he didn't call roll at reveille.

"I understand there will be 300 more recruits in tonight. This is the only balloon school in the United States. There are some other places where they make free flights, but none where they are trained and lowered.

"The music is coming, so will say goodbye.

"CHAS. A. WILKINSON."

Hit-the-Trail-Holiday Once More Pleases Fresno Audience

Baseball players have turned preachers, and preachers have turned baseball players. George Cohen chose a part-time preacher around which he built one of the most successful comedies, "Hit the Trail Holiday." This lively four-act comedy made its first appearance in Fresno at the White theater last winter. It made its second appearance at the White last night and played to a capacity house.

Hilly Holliday didn't reform because he came to a realization of the folly of his trade. In Cohen's play, he fact he came to a little New England town to act as head bartender at a new hotel that was in need of a manager. He found that his prospective employer was trying to unfairly run a competitor out of his business. He immediately took up the side of the other fellow, gave up his job before he had sold a drink, and made a great speech at a prohibition meeting.

It started from there. When the play ended he was marrying the town preacher's daughter and was "booked" for the winter. The company presented the play, headed by Thurston Dailey as Hilly Holliday. The production was very creditable throughout and was very well received. Among other members of the company were Edwin Scrimme as the Rev. T. B. Holden, Sherman Baldwin as Rex Granger, Albert Van Antwerp as Burr Jayson, Hugh O'Donnell as Dean Granger, Lindsay Brown, Wilfred Vurney, Elroy Ward, W. Strong, Odessa Fowler, the colored bootblack and porter, Miss Moran, Elson, Miss Alice Mason and Miss Stella Whinner as Edith Holden, the preacher's daughter.

George Beban and Son

The feature at the Kinema last night was "Lost in Transil," with George Beban starring and his small, snappy, sparkling and clever Eddy, edging in, in a night acceptably as the East Side belle, and the rest of the company doing what there is for them to do in goodly manner. Beban has been provided in this picture with a lot of beautiful, funny business, which includes a junky horse and a wagon to match, and after the early establishment of the fact that he loves children, we see with joy the baby boy in no time nearly every soldier in the post was there. Even was the first to get a rope, and when we all got hold they grabbed the flapping cord and deflated it almost instantly. It sure looked as though the two fellows in the basket had made their last ascent. It would start up and then down, but not clear to the earth, but right among live wires, but luckily they were insulated.

becomes owner of the little country town paper by which he is enabled to support himself and sister in his own optimism and his high principles of honesty in it. A wealthy company tries to avoid the inhabitants of the little town, Opp discovers the swindler and in spite of the fears of his fellow-townsmen he denounces the swindler. Misfortune dog his steps. His rival in the affection of a girl who wants him to put his sister in the asylum, buys his power, and engages him as an employee. He loses his girl, but saves his sister and eventually becomes mayor of the town he helped to build.

The story is slight, but the characterization is effective. "Mr. Opp" is done to the life by Arthur Hoyt. The minor figures preserve their places. He does not obtrude. The incidents are so homely that they do lend themselves to dramatic effect, but they tug at the heartstrings.

Pearl Keeps Busy

Miss Pearl White still "shoots the shotes" and "shoots the shotes" in her avowed purpose to bring into her quiet life a dash of ginger, via a hunt for the lost diamond of Dutton and in "The Pearl Ring" at the Kinema last night she injected new spice into things by having a vase over another lady's head and getting into her clothes, thus making a getaway with the villain who has the diamond and the setting, and purposes a departure with the other lady, but the hunting on the beach settles that. Pearl keeps busy and cuts on the yacht and cripples the engine with an apple on the end of a far-reaching netting. When we are shown a close-up of Pearl and takes back the ring and the setting and the Y. jumps overboard and Pearl runs to the dock and gets a bunch of cops and hurries back to the ship to rescue the youth who drew the fatal number where he was made the seat for the Kluge-King head, and everybody fights at once. Pearl, with right on the boat, and the most cop, shows the newspaper reporter the ring and the setting and he loves her and will not make a story of her numerous plights, even when a fierce effort hovers him up, and the Y. after a long swim in the water rather climbs up on a log pile and gets rather and finds a friend and tells him about what a wild little rascal Pearl is and takes out his knife and opens the heel of his shoe and takes out the diamond and the setting and he is here to us that Pearl swiped the necklace.

Oh, Pearl! Oh, girl! Where do we go from here?

TO PROVIDE SOCIAL UPLIFT FOR ALL SOLDIER BOYS

Chamber of Commerce Is Appealed to for Help
in Raising Fund

Four Thousand Dollars
Is Apportionment for Fresno Section

This morning, the Fresno Chamber of Commerce, responding to an appeal sent out by the war department, is to enter upon a canvass for a fund that is to be used in the gathering to the social forces in the improvement of the training camps of the United States army. The object being the furnishing of amusement for the officers and men outside the camp rather than within.

Nor will this effort cross the plans and purposes of the Y. M. C. A. as the association effort is to be entirely within the camp. The idea of this movement is in bringing together the better social elements of the communities adjacent to the camps, and put in operation plans that shall be in the nature of social uplift, giving officers and men an opportunity for the enjoyment of some of the pleasures denied them in their enforced exile from home.

In making the appeal to the Fresno Chamber of Commerce for the raising the Fresno quota of $4000, the Washington authorities, as represented in the war department, make the following statement:

New Mobilization
The new focus of "mobilization" in connection with war work is being undertaken. It is aimed to improve the morale, to increase the fighting spirit, and add to the efficiency of the American army and navy. It is the "mobilization" of the spirit.

The United States setting a new precedent is attempting to gather together all the sources of hospitality in all the communities surrounding military training camps. The aim of this work is a serious one. While the recreation and amusement which is provided will add to the enjoyment of the soldiers and sailors, the prime idea is that healthy environment around the camps, with proper welcome to the soldiers, will add to the morale of the army and navy.

First of Record
Officials at the national headquarters here of the War Camp Community Recreation Fund, of which John S. Willy, of Toledo, has been appointed chairman by Secretary Baker and Daniels, jointly, state that this is the first time in the world's history that sustained and organized effort has been made to throw around a nation's army all the wholesome, stimulating, and entertaining activities which would be surrounded if they were at home. Always in the past camp and community have been left to shift for themselves with resultant damage to both sides.

Trained Organizers
Trained organizers, under the direction of the war department and Navy Department, Commissions on Training Camp Activities, are being sent to give a month's help to the camp and community which they desire and to which they are entitled. "Three dollars for each soldier and sailor" is the amount needed to carry on this big work for the next twelve months. Practically every day and hour of the day in the whole United States has been assigned a quota which they will be expected to raise for the War Camp Community Recreation fund. There will be no special week set aside for this collection of funds, but it will be gathered together within the next two or three weeks. Telegrams already are arriving from many cities in all parts of the country stating that they will do their part towards helping to win the war in this way.

Another week of grace is given motorists in which to comply with the head-light section of the motor-vehicle law, according to the district attorney's office. A week from tonight all motorists must have their lights adjusted in keeping with the provisions of the law, which requires that the top of the circle of light emanating from their lamps shall not extend higher than 42 inches from the ground at 75 feet from the machine when the car is set on level ground.

In the meantime the various testing stations in the city and at places established throughout the county are being well patronized, showing the evident desire on the part of automobilists to meet the requirements of the law.

There has apparently been some misunderstanding with respect to the arrangements made on behalf of motorists by the California State Automobile Association after consultation with the district attorney's office. The stations for testing lights established by the C. S. A. A. in Fresno, are located at H and Voorman streets, (Einstein playgrounds), and Van Ness at junction of San Bernardino and Hamilton avenues, near the Sperry Clinic mill. In the other towns and cities of the county there are as follows:

Coalinga, Kratzer's garage; Fowler, Log Cabin garage; Clovis, Clovis Garage and Garage; Reedley, J. A. Drake & Son; Selma, Gilman & Son; Kingsburg, Main Garage; Saugus, Ford Agency; Kernman, Plaza Garage, and Lacey, Roy Hedrick's garage.

These testing stations were established for the benefit of all motorists, and to the members of the C. S. A. A. the work of adjusting lights to the requirements of the law is free. To non-members a fee of from 25 cents to 50 cents is being charged, according to whether the work requires only tilting of lamps or focusing in addition thereto.

The mechanics at these stations are employed by the C. S. A. A. and the work for non-members being paid for, in a measure compensates the association for the expense involved.

The other stations have been established by arrangement between Sheriff Thompson and the Standard Oil Company, one at Cherry and Railroad avenues, the other at Belmont and Railroad avenues. At these places no established fee is charged. Motorists may adjust their own lights if they please. However, at these places mechanics will offer their services to motorists and make a charge of 50 cents. This fee is in no way official, nor is the charge officially authorized.

Billy Sunday's Work Defended

First Baptist

Rev. Harvey Deere

In the Rev. Dr. J. Harvey Deere, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, Evangelist Billy Sunday's work is being defended. The Rev. Dr. Deere gave the morning hour of his church yesterday in a carefully considered and thoughtful manner.

Statement of Fact.

The facts are these. The Union Rescue Mission of China Alley is in a bad way. It was believed that if the evangelist could be brought to the rescue mission, the situation would be improved. The Rev. Dr. Deere, in his editorial, has shown that the Rev. Dr. Deere is not a man who is stirring things in the popular centers of this part of the universe.

Safety From Hell.

It calls him an ignorant theologian without giving him credit for the theological knowledge he has gleaned without early training in scholastic things and without having time to do anything since his conversion but give himself to the masses. It calls him a short-sighted moralist because he hits hard drunkenness and lasciviousness and passes by social wrongs. What social wrongs are not left to infer that drunkenness and lasciviousness are only individual sins when in reality there could there be found sins more markedly social and more destructive to the body politic? It says he calls men to a salvation that is purely individual as though the end of salvation were simply safety from hell. But who can forget the mighty, sweeping influence, commercial, social, educational, religious, domestic that comes over whole communities after one of his Sunday sermons. If he is calling men to a self-centered religious life, how account for the closing of saloons, the growth of churches, the revival in Bible study and the organizing and the sending out of gospel teams that year after year?

The Sunday Personality.

Who is Billy Sunday? Commercially he is a success. Thousands of dollars has his ministry netted him. But let his critics everywhere remember three things—that he has only taken what has been voluntarily given him, that when he was converted he gave up a possible salary of $300 a month in the baselined world for $332 a month in Y. M. C. A. work, and that he is evermore using his name to multiply his life in others.

Theologically, Mr. Sunday is a Calvinist. If there is a hell, he believes in it. It is the result of his falling into the decrees of God which make it impossible for him to see how men can be saved unless they repent of their sins. If there be any other way of salvation, my friends, I would like to know it.

As a preacher, Mr. Sunday is absolutely fearless. He stirs up sinners wherever he goes. They hiss at him, they spit at him, but his downright earnestness neutralizes the poison. And before his meeting is done his harsh criticism often finds their way to Jesus Christ and henceforth call Mr. Sunday the greatest man on earth.

Without a peer.

As an evangelist he is without a peer. In point of influence, following, organizing genius, advertising skill, and conversions he is the world's living preacher. He is a steam engine in trousers. What a blessing his going to any community.

Socially, he is a gentleman, courteous, kindly, informal, liberal. He has been criticized for having so many changes of garments. But when we recall that he preaches with such abandon to his theme that there is not a dry thread on him we cannot but marvel by saying what a blessing it would be if we could find in Fresno 100 Christian men whose religion gets so hot that it comes at every pore of their being.

Sunday's appeal is primarily to the masses. It is not a sermon in the strict sense of the word. It is a "mini-sermon" in the sense that it is a sermon in a nutshell.

Every Man in His Own Place

First German Baptist

Rev. F. I. Relchle

Taking as his text that portion of scripture found in the book of Judges, chapter 13, verse 21: "And they stood every man in his own place around the camp," the Rev. Dr. F. I. Relchle, pastor of the First German Baptist church, yesterday morning made a strong appeal to his people for the doing of the present duty.

Matter of Right.

There are two tribunals that have a right to demand that every man does his duty, and to whom are responsible, the tribunal of humanity, our fellowmen, and the tribunal of the Almighty God. We are bound together with the rest of the human family, with bonds that we can not sever, and we are bound to each other, and we are bound to God. The attempt to ignore this fact or to shrink the responsibility this relation involves, will only bring harm to ourselves and others.

All Are Dependent.

Mr. Walter Scott says: "The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other." While we owe a duty to our friends, our neighbors, even individual we come in contact with, we owe also a duty to the country we live in, the nation whose citizens we are. And this latter duty should have become paramount in the mind of each loyal American during the past months.

Must Give Account.

"And each one of us shall give account of himself to God." But the greatest responsibility rests with those that call themselves the followers of Jesus Christ. A mighty host indeed, thirty-three million strong in our land alone. "Like a mighty army, moves the Church of God," we sometimes sing, an army that could in a short time conquer all the kingdoms of this earth of God, if every man stood at his place.

How It Sounds.

Strong? Yes. Too much maybe. Valiant? At times. It grates on sensitive ears to hear him say: "Put a stone in the sling and soaked with oil on the bow of the lamp and he went down for the count. Then he drew his sword and chopped off his head and the rest of the gang beat it. But if it takes such to get the ear of the man about town and the woman of the street, then I am willing to say: 'Preach on, Billy, in your own way, for in common with scores and hundreds of other ministers I have given myself in the more dignified way and the masses have never yet heeded what a good preacher I am. You see, you and your Christ and your earnestness and your sincerity and your organization and even your plans in Fresno."

The World War and Its Causes

First Christian

Rev. H. O. Breeden

Last evening, at First Christian church, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. H. O. Breeden, preached the first of two great war sermons, calculated to point something of the reasons leading up to the conflict and to give emphasis to the thought that back of all great movements, even though the cause of man is revealed, the creator of all things holds the nations in his hands and only permits that which is directed to the working out of his great plan and purpose.

Has Civilization Failed?

And in the earthquake that rumbles round the world, what we supposed to be established Christian virtues are so shaken that they are treated by leading men all around us as negligible quantities. Men are asking where then is God? He should allow whole nations to have from the hand of God goal of social idealism into barbarism? Some say this failure of civilization is a token that there is no God at all.

Just an Illusion.

"Civilization they say is an illusion and God is a delusion. The banks of the river Meuse are said to have overflowed with the bodies of dead and wounded soldiers. The world is falling into the stream. Where then is your God of love? The art treasures of Louvain were demolished by the German investment. Where, then, is your God of beauty? The solemn pledges of the law to preserve neutrality were torn to bits of meaningless paper and the whole of the brave little land is over-run with aliens. Where, then, is your God of truth and honor? These questions of the atheist and cynic are not easy questions of faith. The power of the devil is not easily discerned.

Building With Vision.

There can be no possible question but that in laying the foundation of his Church our Lord had a vision of a world-wide, man-winning, soul-saving institution. The sole commission of that church was to take up the cross and follow. The church of today has lost her power the reason for it will be found in the fact that we have gotten away from Pentecost and have allowed other things to supplant the Gospel story.

Catch the Passion.

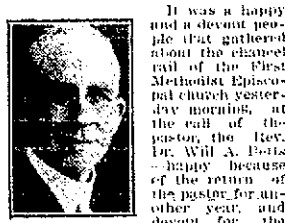

I wish that the Church in Fresno might catch the passion of the early church. The passion that consumed the church after Pentecost was a passion to save men and when that passion grips the church in the city it will revolutionize the spiritual life of this municipality and this entire valley. No temple of stone, no anachronisms of evil, no multiplication of the forces of sin and no fortifications of hell itself can withstand the forward march of the concentrated, consecrated and spiritually animated Church of Christ.

It is true that we cease dealing in toothless generalities and get down to eternal verities. If the word of God stands and "Christ is the same yesterday, and today and forever" then it is a sane and logical conclusion that this is Jesus as willing to empower His church today as He was at Pentecost, and that He is ready to do for the Church in Fresno what He did for the church in Jerusalem or what He did for Wales under the leadership of Evan Roberts a few years ago. If we are willing to pay the price of unconditional and absolute surrender to the leadership of His Spirit.

Strength of Power. If we are ready to do this find will do a new thing for us and the church will become a veritable seat of revival power from which the valley shall be influenced that will prompt the conversion of Family Alters that have been broken down, a spiritual power that will bring our children back to Christ and His church, a stream of healing that will touch, brighten, comfort, heal and save one sin-burdened at a time.

The Great Need of Church Today

First Methodist Episcopal

Dr. Will A. Betts

It was a happy and a devout people that gathered about the chapel of the First Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning, at the call of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Will A. Betts, to hear the sermon on the "Great Need of Church Today." The following is a brief resume of the sermon.

Return to the Church.

Returned from the annual conference of the denomination, Dr. Betts felt impelled to make the appeal direct to his people and at the same time point the source of power and effectiveness in the activities to which the church is called.

Building With Vision.

There can be no possible question but that in laying the foundation of his Church our Lord had a vision of a world-wide, man-winning, soul-saving institution. The sole commission of that church was to take up the cross and follow. Articles. Article one asserts that war is a good thing. It has brought many blessings in the past. It will bring many more in the future. It is indispensable for national well-being. Without war, the world would gradually decay and the moral fiber of nations rot. This is the plain teaching of all modern militarists from Von Moltke to Bernhardi. Read Bernhardi's book entitled, "Germany and the Next War," for the boldest conception of national life—a philosophy which maintains that the foundation of all power is physical force and that greatness is to be computed in terms of brute strength. It is a barbaric philosophy. We are to seek then the cause of the present horror in the realm of ideas. Let us look a moment at this philosophy. The modern name of it is militarism.

Militarism has a creed with three

The Stilling of Life's Tempests

Armenian Presbyterian

Rev. Knadlian

Talking as his topic the stilling of the tempests of life, the Rev. Dr. M. H. Knadlian, at the First Armenian Presbyterian church, spoke on the sermon, "The Stilling of Life's Tempests." The following is a brief resume of the sermon.

Stilling of Life's Tempests.

The stilling of the soul are everywhere. Sin and temptation raise a tempest all about us. There is no use to try and shut one's eyes to the danger in our lives. Some criticize the ministers of the gospel by preaching on the eternal portion of sinners. Objection is raised that to preach of hell is not good for polite people to hear. It is true that the Christian religion is a religion of love, not fear, and yet it is foolish to hide the danger from our sight, when it eternally menaces us and our children.

Must Be Knowledge.

The knowledge of consciousness of danger is the first step to salvation. The discipline in that first step no doubt did all they could, used all their gifts as sailors, to save themselves. But when they realized the hopelessness of their situation they cried, "Lord save us, we perish." The most difficult part of a preacher's work is to bring the sinner to the consciousness of his peril. Ignorance is the root of this great evil. It has sent thousands to destruction. God himself, as if warning us of the consequences of this peril, says: "Many people have perished from lack of knowledge."

No Disappointments.

Jesus never disappoints us. All those who have been saved bear witness to the power of Christ to save. Nineteen centuries have passed since the day when Christ performed this miracle. He is the same yesterday, today and forever. Men and women of all classes and climes have found life by trusting in Him. Will you not try Him? Are you not weary? He calls you unto Him, promising rest. Are you tired of sin? Jesus Christ came to seek and save those who are lost. Will you not give him a chance to save you?

OUGHT TO BE LAW

It is a pity that the last legislature did not pass the law recommended by the Council of Defense, giving the Governor authority over local peace officers for the term of the war. The trouble the army is having with the saloons at Vallejo and in some parts of Contra Costa county, and the failure of local authorities to co-operate in enforcing the law is sufficient illustration. The army officers can themselves close saloons and do their best to suppress prostitution within a certain distance of a military camp, but there are saloons at places not designated as military camps, and there are limits to the burdens that ought to be put on the army in policing the civilian vineyard. Also it is unfair to confine the army to those places where the local government or local sentiment believes in enforcing the law. The proper remedy was the one proposed by the Defense Council, but not accepted, giving the Governor power to see to it that local authorities enforced the laws, and to suspend any who failed to do so. If Governor Stephens had the power, and chose to exercise it, there is no doubt on which side he would exercise it. In fact, by a moral suasion and advisory committee, he is already exercising it on the right side, up to the extent of his very limited powers. If those powers were greater, the military authorities would not have to extort and threaten local peace officers. They would simply report the matter to the Governor and a word from him would do the rest, or if it didn't, a little notice suspending the recalcitrant official from office, and from the salary thereof, would be quickly effective.

GIRLS WIN HONORS

The University of California announces a list of twenty-five honor students—that is, Juniors and Seniors who have maintained honor standing for half a year. The interesting thing is that of the twenty-five students on that list, twenty are women. Four to one, if this list is a fair test, the women surpass the men in scholastic achievement.

We doubt if the test is quite fair, or if the women surpass the men in intelligence. In quite this proportion. Pedagogical standards almost inevitably give to mere routine lesson-getting an importance disproportionate to its actual intellectual value, and a measure of "mistakes" higher than individual thinking. More girls than boys achieve this standard at the top, for the same reason that fewer of them at the bottom get drunk or riot about nights. Orderliness, faithfulness, docility and diligence are virtues whose possession is almost a distinction among boys, while their lack is almost a disgrace among girls. The "honors" standard therefore, fits better into feminine ethics. Further, indicating the same thing, the majority of the "honors" are found in English, Japanese, history, and the like—precisely the studies in which the majority of the students are girls. Evidently the professors of engineering, of applied sciences, and of pre-professional specialties, are more chary of granting "honors," for else the standard is such that it is harder to reach in these subjects. All these things operate as a handicap on the boys, and refute the conclusion that the girls average four times as intelligent as they are.

Nevertheless, with all the discounts the showing is remarkable. When the girls beat the boys four to one on the face of returns, and when we have to begin making explanations on behalf of the male sex to reduce the proportion to even one and a half or two to one, the ancient fiction of the inferiority of women has already disappeared. In fact the modern world has forgotten it.

NOT "WELL POSTED"

The Los Angeles Examiner denounces the state market director, whom it calls "one Weinstein," and holds him responsible for the high cost of living. According to the Examiner, Weinstein has organized the producers into trusts and played into the hands of the middlemen to the increase of prices. "The judgment of men well posted is that the retail price of every farm product 'organized' by Weinstein, is now higher to the consumer than it would have been under normal conditions of open trading." What the market director ought to have done, says the Examiner, was to establish markets where the farmer might ship in their stuff and sell it, or ship it where it could be sold.

Of course the Examiner knows nothing about the matter and has merely taken the word of certain men as "well posted," who are really not posted at all. But the Los Angeles Examiner would not need to have gone further than the fish reports in its San Francisco associate to find that in the one product (this one, to be sure, not a farm product) completely organized by Weinstein, retail prices are not merely cheaper than they "would have" been, but cheaper than they ever were before. There were plenty of fish markets in San Francisco already, and Weinstein established no new ones. He merely organized the existing fish business so that the fishermen got more money, the dealers more profits, and the people more fish at lower prices. The spirit and the purpose of other organs zealous, including those organized by Weinstein and those organized before which he took as models, is the same. The raisin, peach and prune industries illustrate the principle. There is no doubt at all that the consumer is now getting raisins, peaches and prunes better and cheaper than they could possibly have got them without organization. Most of this credit is not Weinstein's, since the organizations were already in existence before he took office, but the method is his, and will be followed in all the industries as fast as he organizes them. The credit in the fish industry is directly and exclusively his.

STARPLANE RUMORS

When you hear rumors about mysterious airplanes hovering about nights, it will be well to consult the monthly star map. Almost always you will find that what the observer saw was not the airplane, but its light. Inasmuch as airplanes do not carry lights (why should they?) the story already begins to look mysterious. In England, for years before actual aerial navigation was perfected, there were periodic reports of mysterious airplanes, always at night, and always with a light. It was a curious coincidence that while the German Javelier, must have come from the East, his light was always seen in the West, in the evening, and was always seen when Venus was very brilliant as an evening star. In this country, sometimes the appearance is in the West, when Venus is bright, and sometimes in the East, when Jupiter, Saturn or Mars is in aphelion. Let one of these brilliant stars be seen intermittently behind waving trees or floating clouds, and let some motorcycle man be speeding down the next road, with his muffler open, and then the airplane is sure to be both seen and heard. The first observer sees only the light, but the twelfth repeater of the rumor has already added wings and tail and a German flag from the masthead. It is an interesting illustration of misapplied astronomy.

WHY NOT BREECHES?

They are threatening in England to abolish vests, on the ground that if army uniforms do not need "weeklies," civilians can do without them, too, and thereby save cloth.

May we not venture the hope that war will, instead, bring in a still more important reform? If all the armies in the world now wear breeches, why should civilians remain condemned to trousers? Of all the brutalities of the Samscoettes, the worst was their disfigurement of the human leg with these shapeless garments. And, to add insult to the injury, they made the things symbols of democracy. The aristocrats had worn breeches and hose; therefore the citizens of liberty, equality and fraternity must emulate their legs in these tumbler disguises, to the end that all men might be equally ugly. But from symbols of democracy, they have long since become instruments of tyranny—the autocracy of tailors and the despotism of fashion. So now that the armies of freedom are wearing breeches, we are hoping that they will let us wear them, too.

Inventors of a soulless age, these long trousers have done even worse than falsify nature and offend art. They have strangled thought and stifled invention. Witness the painful paucity of the expedients to mitigate their ugliness. There are the strapless of Uncle Sam to hold them down; the turn-up cuffs of the modern youth, to pretend that their malice is voluntary; the peg-top and its converse; the heel-trailer and the high-water; the baggy and the close—the whole series showing only one glimmering of genius in Herbert Kelcey's epoch-making invention of the crease. But not one bold step toward real emancipation! We have continued to wear a garment awkward, inconvenient and ugly, shapeless when first pressed and slouchy the day after, an unarticulate encumbrance, not adequate to the graces of a wooden leg. And all the time the breeches of our ancestors adorned the statues of George Washington and the uniforms of the White Sox!

When our soldiers come sailing home from France, there are some things they will never tolerate again—inefficient government, let us hope, stupid laws and ugly clothes. And the chief of these last is trousers.

DAD'S WAR.

We raised a cheer as the time drew near for the soldiers to enter the train. But the cheer was forced and the tears dropped unbidden.

Down our cheeks like a drop of rain. Somewhere from the crowd came a sob, aloud.

Somewhere was a sweetheart's sighs. But that, aside, showed naught but pride in the look of his keen gray eyes.

"By gum, that's him, that's my boy Jim in the winter jacket to see right. That young fella could pine for his gun, but he'll pine a heap more for a fight!" He clapped his way for a warm handshake.

To the boy in the suit of brown. Then turned away in the waiting stage. And drove—in a walk—to down.

Life's joy had gone with his only son. But his pride in his heart remained. None knew of the strife in the father's breast.

When his young fella cut entrained. But he lightened his grin on the busy whip.

While a flash of his features played. The tears were near to the lid when he said: It was here to the dad who stayed.

SAVE CLOTHING:
SO SAVE WHEAT

Wear your suit of clothes or your woolen dress a few weeks or a few months longer than you had intended to, before buying a new one, and you will help increase the supply of wheat. The United States can send to the Allies, and so help win the war, more than 200,000 bushels of wheat. This is the new phase of food conservation doctrine argued by Dean Thomas Forsyth Hunt of the University of California College of Agriculture in a paper on "The 1918 Grain Crop," just published by the University, and obtainable free by writing to the College of Agriculture at Berkeley. The greater the consumption of woolen goods, he points out, the higher is the price of wool. Rise in the price of wool holds back the marketing of mutton. This causes an increased demand for other meats. To produce other meats holds up the price of Indian corn, oats and barley, and thus tends to reduce the production of wheat. So the man who wears his suit of clothes a few weeks longer, or the woman who wears her woolen dress a few months longer, is helping to keep down the cost of bread, and to increase the supply of wheat—one of America's most needed contributions toward the winning of the war.

Dean Hunt appeals to the California farmer to increase his acreage of wheat and to decide his action not from the point of view of how he can make the greatest profit during the present crisis, but of how he can practically serve the need of greater wheat production and yet not diminish his usual income. He points out that California can increase its wheat crop by planting to wheat 10 per cent of the acreage usually sown to alfalfa, or by substituting wheat for poor stands of alfalfa, or by plowing and seeding idle lands or acres recently brought under irrigation—canals and principal laterals have recently been constructed to irrigate a half million more acres of land in California than were irrigated in 1917—or by timely seeding, use of good seed, and judicious application of fertilizers. He estimates that about a third of the wheat farmers of California would find it profitable to fertilize their wheat lands by the use of per acre of a hundred pounds of sulphate of ammonia, or 125 pounds of nitrate of soda, or the equivalent amount of nitrogen in some other carrier, and that such fertilization would increase the wheat yield at least six bushels per acre—provided it is applied to land adapted to wheat through climatic and soil conditions.

Dean Hunt announces that the College of Agriculture will send irrigation advisers free of charge into any community where farmers want advice as to irrigating wheat. University publications by Professor Gilmore and Professor Lipman on how to grow more wheat and how to fertilize wheat lands may be obtained free by writing to the College of Agriculture at Berkeley. The farm advisers maintained by the United States and by the university in most grain-growing parts of California stand ready to give counsel and advice as to whether irrigation or the application of fertilizers is to be recommended in the individual case.

Shall Our Ally Let Us Freeze
While We Feed Our Allies?

Great Britain Can Alleviate Our Dire Wool Shortage by Releasing to Us Her Large Surplus

By WILLIAM H. BURKE
Wool Expert.

(Copyright, 1917, by The National Editorial Service, Inc.)

The national wool famine, which I forecasted in recent articles, has now attained the stage where there is a general recognition of the immediate necessity that our civil population shall wear cotton, and of the imminent requirement that our people must be satisfied with the substitution of paper products for purposes of mere warmth in some articles of daily use, such as bed covering, to which paper can be adapted.

Although the war has gone on for more than three years, with all its abnormal consumption and unprecedented destruction of woolen materials, there would be no present shortage of wool, the world over, however dire the future, were it not for the obstructions impeding transportation and hampering trade by reason of the submarine activities on the one hand and, on the other, of disruption by the British government of the wool trade's natural sources.

The present state of the world's wool supply is this:

In South Africa, there are 240,000 tons of Indian wool lying in warehouses awaiting shipment, that is, wool constituting about 40 per cent of last year's clip in South Africa. It is now spring in those latitudes and this year's clip is coming rapidly into the local markets.

In Australia, where the spring clip is likewise moving forward to the primary markets, there remain warehoused about 400,000 bales, amounting to 25 per cent of last year's Australian clip. The wool that is now being taken from Australia's sheep is much greater in quantity than the clip of any recent year, mostly owing to exceptionally favorable weather conditions.

To a somewhat modified extent similar conditions prevail in New Zealand, the local government authorities having found it impossible, because of lack of shipping, to forward to England all of last year's crop.

This year's crop in South America is now being taken off, but two-thirds of the wool is reported to have been sold in advance of the clipping to speculators, while the unsecured portion of last year's clip remains in South American warehouses, the property of German owners. In all the South American surplus from last year amounts to nearly 60,000,000 pounds, equivalent to 180,000 bales weight of Australian wool.

The German traders who hold it have no objection to selling it to neutrals, their practice since the beginning of the war having been to sell their holdings and replace them with the incoming year's clip. This is to enable them, at the end of the war, to have a supply constantly in hand to meet the needs of German industry for its emergencies of peace.

This brief review covers the major sources of the world's wool supply. The wool of this and last year's clips, located in British colonies and so under British government control, amounts in all to 3,750,000 bales, representing in secured wool 600,000,000 pounds. Great Britain's officially announced requirement of wool for British manufacture for the coming year is stated to be at the rate of 10,000,000 pounds of secured wool per month, or 120,000,000 pounds for the twelve months. To cover that requirement provision has been made for the supply of British industries of wool equivalent to 3,750,000 bales, or 60,000,000 pounds of this amount, 50,000,000 pounds can come from sheep within the United Kingdom, leaving 10,000,000 pounds to come from the colonies.

It is thus apparent that Great Britain, for the preservation of British woolen industries having the maximum requirement of 480,000,000 pounds of secured wool, proposes to provide a supply of 3,750,000 bales, or 60,000,000 pounds in excess of the maximum requirement, while calculating to retain all but 50,000,000 pounds out of the total 600,000,000 within the range of its authority.

This excess of 35,000,000 beyond the maximum requirement is Great Britain's preparedness for the emergencies of peace.

But what, meanwhile, is the United States, Great Britain's ally, to do in its emergency of war? At tremendous prices we may secure in South America some part of the one-third of this year's clip which has not been contracted for by the German, French and Japanese traders.

We produce within our own borders between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 pounds of wool. We need 350,000,000 pounds of secured wool in time of peace, and at least 450,000,000 pounds in excess of the maximum requirement. Omitting South America's supply from the calculation, the United States during the coming year must depend upon its ally, Great Britain, to make up its wool deficit, amounting to the total of its maximum requirement, 450,000,000 pounds.

Can Great Britain deny to the United States the ally that feeds her, the 35,000,000 pounds she holds in excess of her maximum requirement—her surplus wool supply which, at best, can provide only 25 per cent of the coverings Americans must have if they are to keep warm?

THE WORLD WAR
AND ITS CAUSES

objects to international arbitration because it recognizes that a small, weak nation may have rights. He calls on Germany to establish a world government, by force of arms, and he in-dicts what should be the purpose of Germany in the "Next War"—to overthrow the free states of Europe—Belgium, first, then Holland and Switzerland. France is to be crushed, the strength of England diminished, and finally the United States itself is to be the servant of the empire that is to control the world.
This epoch-making book recommended the quick rush through Belgium and the swift capture of Paris,
before France and ally, England,
can mobilize their troops. He recommended the style of naval battle Germany is waging in the North Sea, namely, to pick off England's ships
one by one, by submarines, airplanes, torpedo until the two navies are evenly matched then begin the decisive battle that will give Germany the mastery of the sea.
War, says Bernhardi, is the greatest factor in the furtherance of culture and power.
Just an idea.
So the root cause of the present horrible conditions in Europe is an idea.
A delusion, a strong superstition, an insanity is at the bottom of the whole horrible affair. That delusion is hundreds of years old. It is as perverted as devil-worship, as abhorrent as the sacrifice of children to Moloch, as vicious and dangerous as the most violent form of insanity known in an insane asylum. It is militarism. It is the belief that armies help a nation to prosper. It is what Paul calls "Another gospel"—the gospel of force.
And the long-expected and planned for Armageddon has come.

How to Keep Well;
Talks on Health

By DR. W. A. EVANS
Professor of Hygiene in Northwestern University and Former Health Commissioner of Chicago.

THE BLESSING OF FRESH AIR.

In explanation of the amount of tuberculosis that has developed in the British army on the western front since the beginning of the great war, Kenwood states he has found that the rank and file of the soldiers would not ventilate their trench huts and rest houses back of the line.
Such window openings as the rooms have are habitually kept tightly fastened and even the cracks are stuffed.
Kenwood says that though the fresh air movement was supposed to have spread to every quarter of Great Britain, it was evident that it had not materially influenced the customs and habits of the great bulk of the people. Here were some millions of men drawn from all over the empire. When placed where their fresh habits could be observed one could not help but conclude that the run of the people back home, like their sons in the trenches, were content to live in quarters that were windowless, or where the windows were kept closed, and that some of them even practiced the chinking of window cracks.

And then we turn to America and still other proof that the campaign for fresh air has not yet accomplished its end.
Three years ago the National Housing Association asked 138 American cities how many windowless bedrooms they had. No city knew the number of windowless bedrooms occupied by its citizens. New York City had the best idea. In New York City apartments there were 6,222 windowless bedrooms. They had no figures for any type of dwelling except tenement houses and there are bad offenders among other types. The situation was improving in a single year in two boroughs—Brooklyn and Queens—where bad-cursed windows to be cut into 3,457 dark bedrooms.

Most cities replied that they had ordinary fairly well observed preventing the building of new houses with windowless rooms, but as to what the conditions were in the houses built before the ordi-naries went into effect, say five or ten years before, they had little knowledge.
This brings to mind a somewhat related subject.

Chicago's great building boom was in the early '90's, at which time there was but little control of building. A great number of unsanitary buildings were erected. The people were not aware of the harm from living in such places.
Most of these buildings were erected for people ordinarily very well informed. The talk about better light and air in bedrooms is causing people to move out of these buildings, mostly apartment houses.
They are vacant by the thousands. In many places the owner is finding it good business judgment to scrap a structure which, had there been building supervision, would have been attractive to tenants for another twenty-five years.

Popular education as to sunlight and air in bedrooms, though it has not gone far enough to save the soldiers in the trenches or to eradicate consumption, has made progress.
Another point required about by the National Housing Association was underground living rooms. Underground sleeping rooms can be made fairly healthy.
The soldiers in the trenches of the western front live underground during their turn in the front trenches. But we are not to infer from this fact it is advisable for people to live underground. First, the soldiers are under the continuous observation and control of sanitarians.
Things are made as sanitary as they can be. Second, no soldier lives underground for more than two weeks at a stretch.
The people living underground in Philadelphia. No city knows just how many of their people lived in cellars, basements and sub-basements.

FOOD FOR BABY.
Anxious mothers sometimes ask: "What kindly tell me the best diet for my months old baby who has fat indigestion?
She is bottle fed, but does not gain and cannot seem to digest anything. She has no teeth yet and sleeps very little."

A child 6 months old should take thirty-two ounces of food in the twenty-four hours. The amount of milk to be taken in the twenty-four hours should be one and a half quarts for each pound of weight. This should be diluted with enough water to make thirty-two ounces.
To this two ounces of malt sugar should be added. This is to be given in about five feedings. This is the ordinary diet for a baby 6 months of age. If your baby is suffering from fat indigestion your advice is that you counsel with a physician experienced in infant feeding. If this is not feasible you may try the above mixture made with skim milk. If the baby is badly disturbed use a smaller proportion of skim milk, say one-half ounce for each pound of weight, for a few days. Whole milk can gradually be placed skim milk. Of course, breast feeding, when feasible, is usually the best way out.

ARMY TREATMENT ADVISED.
C. M. writes: "I am a young man of 21.
When I awoke in the morning I am stiff and my back hurts me. I had two months' treatment from two doctors, and I am in the same truck as before. One doctor said I have rumbago. Is it curable?"

REPLY.
Go to the nearest military camp. Watch the men go through the stretching exercises. Go home and spend a half hour a day going through these exercises. If this does not cure you, you will need to have yourself examined for some focus of infection. Such focus may be in your teeth, your tonsils, your nose, or possibly your prostate gland.

SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT.
H. S. writes: "I am a lover of cottage cheese and would like to know just what other article of diet with it would make a well balanced meal."

REPLY.
Cottage cheese is high in protein and sugar. It is low in fat and salts. The usual combination of bread and butter, cottage cheese, a vegetable, and a fruit
as a good one. It takes the place of meat as a meal.

Will King and his company of clever performers return to the White theatre tonight to enter into their final work in Fresno.
This company has met with unprecedented success during their engagement here, and deservedly so, for they have given us the best performance of any stock company that has ever played here.
The show to be presented tonight is called "The Show" and will show the company at its best in some new comedy hits, song hits and brilliant costumes.
There will be but one show tonight
at 8:15.

Beauty Talks

Simplicity
(Copyright, 1917, by Lillian Russell)
Very often I find a trail of foolishness and fancies following an exhibition of common sense. Extremists and people who crave public attention introduce silly notions and look in the favor of a thoughtless group of admirers. Some people seem ready to take up anything that is new. Groundless theories and distortions based upon fact are swallowed as truths and tomes.
Serious men and women who formulate sound health rules are handicapped by false preachers and sophistics. Sometimes the worshippers of false goals unconsciously stand upon the truth. But just as frequently they are sidetracked, headed for disaster or less than their efforts.
It is unfortunate that some people feel they must travel a rough way to the goals they desire to reach. Perhaps there is no royal road to wealth, but there is a royal way to health and strength. It is pleasant to obey the simple rules of health and to see an increase in physical health and strength. Sometimes physicians know that they must prescribe afternoon naps to please their patients when all they need is simple advice.
Cleanliness is the basis essential to a good complexion, yet many women would laugh if told that they would improve the condition of their skin by more carefully washing their faces and rubbing the pores of accumulated substances that cause blemishes.
It is necessary to keep the scalp perfectly clean if the hair is to be in good condition—yet an ordinary shampoo does not appeal to many women who determine that they must do something to their hair. A large percentage are governed by the idea that they must undergo some complex treatment and use costly conditioners to secure results.
Simple exercises will promote health, yet many women prefer or believe it necessary to follow a difficult course.
Somebody told a young woman that she was a great beauty, to this was added the advice to sleep with the windows open. The advice was

Model 45

Oldsmobile
CLUB ROADSTER

The sport model idea in motordom is completely expressed in the Oldsmobile Club Roadster.

Designed primarily to permit comfort, intimacy and fellowship for five, this club
model is further characterized by body lines of unusual smoothness and symmetry.

It is a beautiful car to own, an enjoyable car to ride in, an easy car to drive, an economical car to maintain.

Under the trim hood and graceful body is the famous Oldsmobile 8-cylinder chassis giving smoothness and flexibility for the highways, power and stamina for the byways, and representing the embodiment of mechanical excellence in motor car design.

Only by performance can the true value of the Oldsmobile Club Roadster be measured; and only by a demonstration can its performance be fully realized.

We will gladly arrange for a demonstration to suit your pleasure.

STRATHMORE MAY LOSE LIBRARY

Chamber of Commerce to Discuss Steps to Save Library

STRATHMORE, Oct. 14.—The regular meeting of the Strathmore Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday evening. Several matters of vital importance and of interest to the public in general will come up for consideration, and the meeting will in reality be a community meeting. The members of the Town and Country club are planning to attend.

A movement is under way which will result in the discontinuance of the Strathmore branch of the Tulare County Free library, unless the people of the community take steps to prevent it. The library has come to and entertainment in the community life here. It is a part of a county-wide system which makes available to any individual almost any book desired. When particular books are not found on the shelves of the town library, a simple request will bring them from the county headquarters.

The patrons of the Struthmont library number more in proportion to the nearby population than do those of the other branches of the county library. It is very important that this institution be saved to the town. The county librarian will be present at the meeting.

A detailed report of the work done by the Red Cross here to date will be given, and the plans for the future work outlined.

NORTH FORK

NORTH FORK, Oct. 14.—On October 10, the No. 2 power house of the Salsburg Light and Power Corporation started actual operation. Mr. Moore, an engineer for the company, has been at the No. 2 power house for several days putting on the finishing touches, and will stay a few days longer to see that everything runs well.

The starting up of power house No.

takes the water of the North Fork from Manzanita Dam, below power house No. 3. This has lowered the water in the creek very materially, with the result that many large fish are being caught in the shallow pools. Principal Osburn of the North Fork school has already caught forty-three, all of which are from fourteen to sixteen inches long.

Klipstein and Owens were present at the opening of the game preserve a year ago, and Mr. Berry has invited the same party which attended last year to be in attendance this year.

Mr. J. D. Hall returned on Thursday from Los Angeles, where she spent several days visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Francis Rogers.

P. E. O'Rourke has his new residence nearly completed, and will move into the house some time in the next few days. The house is a modern six-room bungalow, and is located on Mary street.
